THE GAP

What 134K should sound like.

WHAT'S BROKEN

A big account with a stalled engine.

- 1

Engagement has collapsed to near zero

0.06% engagement — ~80 likes and 3 comments across 134K followers. A genuinely active audience this size throws off thousands. Whether it's gone dormant or was padded early, Instagram now reads every post as low-quality and quietly caps its reach.
- 2

The number is deflating

Down from roughly 137.5K to 134K — negative nearly every day Socialblade tracked. The big follower count is masking a slow, steady bleed.
- 3

At this point the size is a liability

134K followers at 0.06% tells the algorithm "big account nobody cares about" — which gets throttled harder than a small, engaged page. Left alone, it spirals down, not up.
- 4

Great production, borrowed authority

The Tony Robbins clips and founder-quote carousels are well-branded — genuinely a cut above. But it's other people's faces and words. Nothing makes the audience loyal to EWM specifically, so there's no moat and no reason to come back.
- 5

A funnel running on fumes

You've got the website and the offers — most pages never build that. But at 80 likes of reach, almost nobody is being sent to them. The business is built; the traffic engine that feeds it has stalled.

WHAT WE'D CHANGE

Illustrative: 1.5% of 134K followers. A directional target for what this audience should produce — not a guaranteed number. We promise the system and the work; engagement and revenue are the outcome of it.

You built the whole business. Let's wake the audience up.

134K followers, branded content, a live funnel — the hard assets are already there. The only broken piece is distribution, and that's the fixable part. Give me 15 minutes and I'll show you the first 30 days.
